...:SEA-CAST #5:...

Today is a strange day. It also marks the 50th anniversary of Yuri Gagarin's first visit into space, well actually the first man to enter space period, as far as we know anyway. Shortly after President Kennedy begged NASA to have the US beat the rest of the world to be the first country visit to the moon. Now a days we are racing to make the biggest weapons. Do we often choose to look inward and explore our thoughts in times of inner turmoil? When we have back the confidence, can we then choose to explore the cosmos?

Here is Duarte, California's own absurdist inventor EDSEL PRESLY with a track off the upcoming album "www.duartesucks.com". The album is Bizzare at it its finest and goes well with life. The album is full of absurdly catchy folk, western and even some free jazz tracks- all topped with Edel's accented drawl reciting lyrics surreal as American pie.

Recorded and mixed with vintage and homemade gear, the tones are gritty and disabling. Forget Lo-Fi sentiments, each album comes with a free used water bottle from one of beautiful Duarte's trash bins. Recently the song was featured on KXLU's Demolisten and even has radio play in Canada somewhere. "It's a really big deal" -Edsel Presly
